

CALL FOR ENTRIES – SCHOOL OF LIFE at britspotting – short films

Dear directors, producers, distributors...

Once again, britspotting the British and Irish Film Festival in Berlin (13 – 15 november 09) presents SCHOOL OF LIFE – a special short film programme for young people that deals with moments of initiation and with the excitement as well as the problems of growing-up in various corners of society, reflecting young peoples' perspectives on life.

Since 2005 SCHOOL OF LIFE became a very popular and successful part of britspotting. We offered special screenings and workshops for school classes and groups at the Filmmuseum Potsdam.

Due to the huge success britspotting will expand SCHOOL OF LIFE. In cooperation with the Freie Universität Berlin we are planning an all-year SCHOOL OF LIFE programme which will take place at interested schools in Berlin and Brandenburg. We'll curate three short film programmes for different English levels including workshops in which we will discuss and analyse the film issues with the help of background information about the films and the film makers.

Therefore we are looking for appropriate british and irish short films from all genres (fiction, animation, documentary etc.) which address a young audience.

If your short film suits this requirement and is not older than 2 years we kindly ask you to use the attached submission form and send it along with a copy of your film on DVD together with background information.

There is no submission fee. Closing date for entries is August 31 2009. We will let you know whether your film was chosen for SCHOOL OF LIFE by the end of the year.

Please send your submission & short film to:
